Rucker was sent for in a hurry to relieve Scanlan when eent for in a hurry to relieve Scanlan when the New Yorks were still behind but climbing, but as many runs were made off Rucker as off Scanlan. It was Doyle again who with one centre shot broke the back of the Brooklyn campaign and put the New Yorks in a winning position. He tore off a home run in the seventh inning just behind Crandall, who had made a single. The New Yorks were a run short when Larruping Latry frescoed the background with his third home run in two days and one run shead when he had derived the fruits thereof. It was simple enough to keep the Brooklyns underneath from that on. The Brooklyns had it all their own way in the first inning. Marquard was unsteady and ineffective and was raked for singles by Clement and Hummel and a three bagger by Lennox. Doyle contributed a muff on Jordan and three runs decorated the first half of the first inning. The Giants might have brought home some bacon in the same inning but for a corking stop by Scanlan of Doyle's flery slam and a rattling catch by Clement off Seymous. Scanlan doubled in the second inning, and in between the second and third outs there came two bases on balls and a hit by Hummel. Out of all sthat Scanlan was the only man to score for the Brooklyns. Redmond was the third fly ball victim of the inning, leaving three comrades attached to the canvases. The Giants nearly routed by Devlin and Meyers and a double by Merkle, two runs coming in, but he adorned the programme for one more number. Seymour sent a triple to left in the third, the ball taking a sharp bound through Clement's legs. Snodgrass scored Cy with a single. Crandall had all his speed with him, and the third was Brooklyn's first scoreless inning, two men fanning themselves to the bench on Crandall's fast ones. The New Yorks did better in their first round against Rucker. Meyers hit the longest two bagger of the season, a lofty drive which Clement ran back for and barely touched with his finger tips. Height and distance combined were such that a fast walker could have made third the New Yorks were still behind but Cree.2b... Knight,ss... Austin,3b... an infield out. A couple of errors, perpetrated one on the heels of the other, gave the Brooklyns the only count extorted while Crandall was on the platform. Merkle muffed Crandall's assist of Hummel's grounder. Hummel stole second after Redmond had fouled to Meyers. Lennox's effacement, Bridwell to Merkle, put the runner on third and McMillan flipped a neat single to right whome supplied the motive power for Hummel's Journey home. supplied the motive power for fluntmel's journey home. The two hits made off stucker in the seventh were both beauties. Craudall's was a stinging single and Doyle's another flerce rap. Crandall fell in turning second and sprawled all over the adjacent acres. It was a question whether he would pick himself up before Doyle plunged headlong over him, but he did a quick gather of himself and managed to lead Doyle over the plate. Doyle had mighty little the better of McMillan's relay when he pounded over the tray. The score: BROOKLEN. Proves the Master of the California in Every One of Ten Rounds-Left Hook and Right Uppercut His Main Blows-Kaufman Game, Outclassed. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.- Heavyweight fight at the Mission street arena. From the first half of the first round Johnson proved himself master of Kaufman at every angle of the game, and though the Californian lasted the limit this was largely due to the fact that Johnson didn't force the fighting in the early rounds, and when he tried to finish his man in the seventh and succeeding rounds he didn't have heavy left hook to the heart and a right uppercut, which he landed at will when coming out of clinches. Johnson didn't stand away and spar, but fought close up to mark, and Kaufman's face was covered with blood after the first round. So easily did Johnson outclass Kaufman that it seemed he could have ended the fight at any stage, but Kaufman's pluck and enormous strength prevented the champion from scoring a knockout.

In one of the middle rounds Johnson, with his hands stretched at his side, aughingly asked Kaufman to come and get him. In the eighth, ninth and tenth Johnson was more serious of purpose.
"Break, Kaufman, break," he called as Al close. But Al didn't break, and with Representatives of sixty automobile manufacturers and importers drew for space in the forthcoming Atlanta automobile show on Tuesday of this week at the office of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers. The show will be held in the Auditorium-Armory in Atlanta from November 8 to 13. The drawing was held under the supervision of 8. A. Those who were fortunate enough to secure preferred spaces in the main hall include the Oldsmobile Company, which secured the first choice, and the makers of the Maxwell, Mitchell, Packard, Pope-Hartford, Cadillac, Woods, Franklin, Stevens-Duryea, Pierce, Winton and Peerless. The Motor Contest Association officials have decided to change the date of the sweepstakes event over the Riverhead-Mattituck circuit, or the Long Island Stock Car Derby, as it is officially styled, from Tuesday, September 21, to Wednesday, September 29. The date was moved forward on account of the short time left in which to secure entries and make the arrangements for improving the roads and sprinkling them with a dust laying compound. As it was found impossible to use calcium chloride on the roads as a dust preventive on account of the lack of an adequate water supply, the race managers have decided to have the roads sprinkled with heavy asphaltum oil. Two Rainiers have been entered by John T. Rainier, and George W. Loft has entered a Mercedes. An owner of a Pope-Hartford has notified the Motor Contest Association he will enter his car. Chairman Hower issued a sanction for the event while he was at Lowell the first part of this week. Promises of five entries were made by firms whose cars raced at Lowell.
